

Yes, that's what I thought when I used to read fifty-two umpteen comments as a pretend-therapist, after her few adult-ed courses in psychology. (sigh) That is, before her courses in spirituality brought forth that change in her comments. (double sigh) And so forth. Need I go on? And now we have to deal with a blog monitor to comment against every joke and lighthearted spoof.